HC IMPACT Program Description

The Honors College is holding a service-learning week from Sunday, August 21 through Sunday, August 28 for 40 incoming first-year students. Student participants will live on campus in a residence hall and engage in service projects with different community-based organizations, critically reflect with one another on their experiences, and build community with other incoming first-year students.

The purpose of this week is to:

1. use a service learning model to educate students on social issues of inequity and inequality, using the particular context and challenges of our local community. Proposed focus areas include: food, education, homelessness & poverty, and health & wellness;
2. instill/continue an ethic of service early in the college career;
3. model effective citizenship and leadership in one's community; and
4. develop cultural understanding through opportunities that stretch a student to move across social, economic, and cultural boundaries.

The program will extend into the academic year with connection to a first-year seminar course (UGS 101H). The class is a 2-credit course in the Fall semester focusing on topics covered during the program and provides the opportunity to continue the service experience at a local community organization working to address social inequities in the city of Lansing.

In the unlikely event the program must transition online, participants will not move on campus to participate in HC IMPACT.

HC IMPACT Program Description

Mentors should possess an ethic of service, with clear commitment to working with MSU and the East Lansing/Lansing communities. In addition, Mentors should demonstrate a desire to work with incoming Honors College students to aid in the new students' transitions to both MSU and the Honors College.

Mentors will have the opportunity to establish relationships in the East Lansing and Lansing communities, engage with the newest members of the Honors College, and work closely with Honors College staff & faculty. Mentors will be asked to move into their on- or off-campus housing prior to the start of the program on Sunday, August 21 for an in-person HC IMPACT.

During the week of service, Mentors will engage in the following activities: lead community-building activities, aid in the transportation of participants (driving vans, etc.), facilitate reflection & discussion activities, participate in service at various sites around the community, and serve as mentors for the first-year participants.

Compensation:

*Approximately $250

*Meals provided for the week (if the program operates in-person)
